'Y' Coed Injured Friday Mother, Baby Victims

By Jason Summers
University Features Editor

A BYU coed, Natalie Flandro was struck by a car in a pedestrian walkway on campus drive at 11:15 p.m. Friday.

MISS FLANDRO, a 20-year old freshman from Salt Lake City, was rushed to the McDonald Health Center by BYU Security.

From there, she was taken to Utah Valley Hospital and then to Holy Cross Hospital in Salt Lake City.

Miss Flandro suffered a broken nose, fractured pelvis and skin lacerations.

THE CAR which struck her was driven by Terrie Diane Cox, a freshman from Rigby, Idaho.

An investigating Security officer said that Miss Flandro was conscious when he arrived at the scene of the accident. Her condition, reported by Holy Cross Hospital Sunday afternoon, was satisfactory.

CAPTAIN Neilson of Security said that no citations were issued nor would they be issued until detective finished talking to witnesses.

Several witnesses to the accident have left Provo for the weekend and detectives are waiting to question them.

TRAFFIC accidents were not restricted to the BYU campus Friday.

John Yates, a senior in psychology from Salt Lake City, arrived at a 2-car crash on University Avenue shortly seconds after it occurred.

YATES, who is a National Guard medic, assisted in freeing the three occupants from their compact car—which was struck by another vehicle traveling the wrong direction on the exit.

Mr. Beatty, 24, and her baby, passengers in one of the vehicles, died later. According to Yates, the baby was in the back seat of the car "partly immersed in gas."

MR. BEATTY, was taken to the Utah Valley Hospital where he was in "satisfactory-to-poor" condition Sunday.

Honor Code Faces Revision In Vote Wednesday, Thursday

Students will have the chance to vote Wednesday and Thursday to give a vote of confidence to new proposed honor code.

REVISION will give definite standards for faculty responsibility as student.

Conn Cundick, assistant chairman of the Honor Council said Sunday efforts to make a single standard, we are trying to get a vote of confidence for proposed revisions of the ASBYU Honor

PROPOSED revisions of the Honor Code are being sent to the body for their vote and comments this week. On Wednesday and Thursday students are being asked to accept or reject the suggested changes. They will be by separate ballot and will take place at the ASBYU primary elections, Cundick said.

There will be copies of the proposed Honor Code revisions on the bulletin board in the dorms and at each residence hall.

IF THE PROPOSED revision to the Honor Code is accepted, the Honor Council will take a position to give support, clarification, and power behind the Code.

The complete revised code is printed on page two.

'Sound Of Music' Praised

The presentation of the Best Family Movie of the Year Award to "Sound of Music" last Thursday was certainly a positive step toward curbing the huge number of movies produced which are undesirable for family viewing.

Instead of heaping criticism upon the movie industry for producing undesirable movies, the Deseret News, KSL-TV and Radio and The Improvement Era joined forces to praise good films. Perhaps by giving this type of recognition, other movie makers will be that whole-some, family movies are appreciated and draw huge crowds.

A factor that stimulated the annual award was the grave concern that members of BYU's Curtain Time USA had about the poor improvement movies were having on our students of America. President Ernest L. Wilkinson said at the banquet Thursday evening, "Our entertainers encountered people who expected them to have a cigarette in one hand and a drink in the other and be driving around in red sports cars. When questioned as to the reasons for this belief, our students were told, 'Because that is the way your movies depict you.'

Arch L. Madsen, president of KSL-TV and Radio, said, "Let us not blame Hollywood entirely for this situation. The blame rests with you, with the people in this room."

"This program is the first of its type and a step in the right direction," said Madsen. The people in Hollywood need encouragement to produce good motion pictures. The encouragement will come from letters to producers and others who make pictures you feel are worthy and good and by your patronage of them."

The interesting assembly, the huge trophy, the banquet in the Wilkinson Center Ballroom Thursday evening and the warm BYU reception made an impression on 20th Century-Fox representatives, producers of "Sound of Music." Harry E. Sokolov, executive assistant to the president and production chief of the studio, said on receiving the trophy, "I want to tell you how honored I am to accept this award. We have many awards for 'Sound of Music.' We have received letters from all over the world about the picture, but I humbly say the award we receive tonight gives us more gratification and happiness than any other."

Because of last week's presentation, others in the film industry cannot help but be made aware that there are people in the world that appreciate entertainment the caliber of "Sound of Music."

Proposed Honor Code Revision To Eliminate Double Standard

(Editor's note: The following is the complete code which will be voted on by students Wednesday afternoon.)

Proposed Revision of the ASBYU Honor Code

The Honor Code

I. Standards of Academic Honor (infractions handled by ASBYU Honor Council).

Students in the Brigham Young University academic setting are naturally expected to perform their own work at all times. A student is required to refrain from giving or receiving aid in examinations or in the preparation of individual assignments done in the classroom, unless the instructor has specified that such action is permissible.

In an academic situation operating under the Honor Code at Brigham Young University both students and faculty have equal responsibility for both family and student-body is essential for the successful operation of the BYU Honor Code.

A. Faculty Responsibility

- The instructor should give the students specific instructions at the beginning of each semester and as necessary throughout the remainder of the semester, as to what constitutes unpermitted aid in his particular class.
- When examination is given the instructor should remain in the classroom only long enough to make necessary explanations and answer questions. No monitors or faculty or faculty representatives should be in the classroom during the testing period. The instructor should inform the students when the examination will be during the remainder of the period (preferably in the general vicinity of the test room) should questions arise, or he should return periodically to the room.
- Students should be permitted to leave the classroom during the testing period. Examination materials are not to be taken from the testing room.

4. It is recommended that instructors avoid the repetition of test material over short intervals such as successive semesters.

5. If an instructor has evidence of a violation of the BYU Honor Code in the classroom, he should take one of the following measures of action:

- Personally work with the student involved in an effort to prevent future occurrence of the problem.
- Refer the violation to the student Honor Council so that they might work with the student.
- Work jointly with the Honor Council in correcting the situation.

When an infraction of academic standards has occurred, the student will receive in his class or on a particular test or assignment a mark to be determined between the instructor and the student.

B. Student Responsibility

1. Since the teacher will not be in the classroom during an examination, responsibility for all controlling measures of academic conduct lies solely in the hands of the students.

2. If a student observes that cheating is occurring in the classroom, he is to make his observations known by tapping his pencil on the desk. The student observing the violation is responsible for following one of two courses of action:

- Confront the violator personally.
- Discuss privately the apparent infraction.

3. If after discussing the matter privately it still appears concerning the incident, both students should discuss the matter with the Honor Council or refer any violation to the student Honor Council.

4. When an obvious violation has occurred the violator should be encouraged to report the violation to his instructor concerning the matter. If he will not do so the student observing the violation should talk to the instructor.

b. In the event of hesitation or difficulty in proceeding as described above the Student Honor Council is to be contacted for assistance in resolving the matter.

3. Students are expected to take the regularly scheduled tests or make prior arrangements with the teacher.

II. Standards of Personal Honor (infractions treated by Office of University Standards).

In addition to the academic elements of the Honor Code a student at Brigham Young University is expected to observe the following standards:

A. Moral cleanliness.

B. Complete abstinence from the use of tobacco and alcoholic beverages.

C. Observation of all constituted laws of the land.

D. Acceptance of the responsibility for helping other students understand and follow the standards of the University.

E. Refrain from misuse and destruction of library materials. In Conclusion.

The Honor Council applies to the student's life both on and off campus and during vacation periods. It applies equally to members and nonmembers of the LDS Church.

Academic violations, if not resolved, may become part of any official university record.

It should be noted that both faculty and students have a responsibility to either become personally involved in attempting to help a student who has violated the Honor Code or refer any violation to the student Honor Council.

When a BYU student has been accused of any violation of university standards, he has a right to be informed of the exact nature of the violation of which he is suspected and of the source of accusation.

Political Forum . . .

Should Red China Be Admitted To U.N.

Editor's note: Political Forum is a regular feature of the Daily Universe. The subject for next week's column will be "How Recent Events in Asia Are Affecting the United Nations." Stories dealing with this topic are encouraged to bring articles to the Editor's office, fifth floor, Wilder Center by Thursday.

By Douglas L. Miles

Physics Junior

The admission of Red China to the U.N. is inevitable. The U.S. has taken the position that Red China is disqualified for membership because she is an "outlaw government" that has forcibly seized control of 700 million people, and that she has violated the principles of the U.N. that the people is the real China. This contention is only as realistic as the possibility that those 10 million will conquer million and recover the real estate known as Red China.

Since we apparently have neither the inclination nor capacity to sustain such a venture we should be prepared to drop the illusion that Red China is not a part of the world community.

The United Nations is an organization designed bringing nations together to maintain international peace security, to develop friendly relations, to achieve international cooperation in solving world problems, to promote and encourage respect for human rights and to harmonize actions of nations in attaining these common goals."

We have the necessity of dealing with China, as a belligerent war we can twist but are not allowed to break. peace is possible between the U.S. and Communist nations such as Red China, and if the U.N. has any power to resolve conflicts among member nations, then the inclusion of China would extend that power to where it is most needed.

By Donald A. Cazier
Political Science Senior

If there is any subject on which Americans of all parties can agree, it is that the question of Red China membership in the United Nations is a question that Red China is clearly ineligible for membership under the terms of the United Nations Charter, which specifies that membership is open only to "peace-loving states which accept the obligations contained in the present charter." The Chinese do even pretend to be a peace-loving nation. Instead they openly proclaim that "the Marxists-Leninists never had a gloomy view of war . . . War is a great school." And the Chinese have demonstrated that they practice what they preach in their armed aggression in Korea, Laos, Tibet, India, and their open support of the Viet Cong in the current Vietnamese conflict.

Certain individuals advocate the admission of Communist China in spite of her ineligibility. This would be equivalent of appointing John Dillinger to the Chicago police force or Guy Hall to the U.S. Supreme Court. Marion G. Romney, it is well when he said, "Liberty loving people can more expect to secure cooperation from Communism in establishment of peace than Christ could secure such cooperation from Satan."

It is sometimes argued that association with the Communists in the United Nations is desirable on the grounds that "while we're talking at least we're not shooting." Let's face this one needly recall that the Pearl Harbor attack came while the U.S. was conducting peace negotiations with the Japanese in Washington.

It is difficult to see that anything can be gained by negotiating with an avowed enemy which believes, as do Chinese Communists, that "treaties are pie crust made to be broken." President David O. McKay expressed this feeling when he said, "I may be unchristianlike in my feelings, but I would not desire to be in another as Russia has treated America. It is a condition which cannot be permitted to exist." Certainly the treatment afforded America by Communist China has been better.

Cigarette Sales On Increase

NEW YORK, (AP)—The newly revised health warning on cigarette packages apparently has failed to cut cigarette sales.

IN FACT, more cigarettes were sold in market in January than in December, and some forecasts indicate production and consumption might reach record highs against this year.

January was the first month in which manufacturers were required to print warnings packages.

THE COMPARISON may not be conclusive because manufacturers' warehouses contained packages which did not carry the warning. Such packages were sold until the supply was exhausted.

The requirement for the new warning stemmed from the 1964 report of the U.S. Department of Health linking cigarette smoking with lung cancer.

Dona Gregory, Universe Society Editor, chats with Charmian Carr, co-star of Roger's and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music," in the informal atmosphere of the Skyroom. During the conversation Miss Carr commented, "I would very much like to see more of BYU and would love to come back sometime if invited."

'Sound Of Music' Co-Star Here For 'Best Film' Award

by Dona Gregory
Society Editor

Charmian Carr, lovely 20-year-old co-star of Rogers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music" graced the BYU campus last Thursday with several appearances throughout the day, and was voted "Best Movie of the Year," award presented by KSL radio and TV, Deseret News, the Improvement Era, and Brigham Young University.

IN CHATTING with Miss Carr after the luncheon, held in her honor, in the casual atmosphere of the Skyroom, her naturalness, quiet mannerisms, and grace of presence were just a few of the refreshingly qualities often not found in today's generation of Thespians.

When inquiring about her impeccable English accented speech, she smiled, reflecting those impish dimples, and said, "Well, I must have picked it up from my Father, but, I must confess, I was born in Chicago, and I've lived in San Fernando Valley, California, for the past 10 years!"

"WHAT DO YOU think about BYU?" I asked. She said she was very impressed with the modesty of dress, hairstyles, and the very little make-up the girls used. "But, most of all," she stated, "Everyone has been so warm and kind. I think it's the friendliest campus I've been to since I began my tour."

"The Sound of Music" being Miss Carr's first professional acting role, she said that it proved to be a tremendously successful one, she finds that many demands have been made on her life since. Missing social activities with friends her own age, she happily surmises, "I've been to so many wonderful places and met so many wonderful people. I wouldn't trade for anything!"

LOOKING FORWARD to a summer of peace and quiet, Charmian has a busy curriculum scheduled for the fall. She will either do a Broadway musical, or another movie. I detected a note of prejudice when she told me about the musical, "Hobson's Choice."

Looking forward to a summer of peace and quiet, Charmian has a busy curriculum scheduled for the fall. She will either do a Broadway musical, or another movie. I detected a note of prejudice when she told me about the musical, "Hobson's Choice."

She still would like to have her degree, however, being thrust into nearly overnight stardom, she feels, "It's been an education in itself, and a tremendous opportunity."

LAST SATURDAY Charmian returned to her home in San Fernando Valley, winding up a year and a half of world traveling in behalf of "The Sound of Music." With signs of exhaustion, she wunked said, "Gee, I don't think I'll do any more traveling for at least a year."

During Thursday's Forum session, Miss Carr rendered two vocal selections from the film, "Sister, Going On Seventeen," and "Edweiss." At the conclusion of assembly, the audience rose singing "Climb Every Mountain."

Brigham Young starters like Aboud, Arizona forward, set the 1965 Western Athletic Conference academic basketball announced Saturday by Commissioner James E. Ringer.

The academic-athletic fight with Aboud are Cougars Semeka, Steve Kramer, Jeffon, and Neil Roberts.

Set by five sports writers and the honorees were the only ones selected. The Cougars were nominated by their respective schools. All are now candidates in all-American academic basketball team.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for the academic basketball team, candidates must have at least a "B" average in their class work and participation in varsity games.

The Cougars' mission list includes Ed Burzville, New Mexico; Kent Johnson, Wyoming; Pat McNeely, and John Newsome, Arizona; and Bill Ruffner, Brigham Young.

NEMELKA, who was chosen on Tuesday, is the first Cougars basketball team heads the academic five with a 3.96 grade-point average, barely short of a psychophilic "A" average (4.0). The 64 psychophilic major is a senior and holds the conference career record of .483 for field goal shooting. He averaged 24.0 points per game last season.

Kramer, 64 senior forward, was on the National Invitational Tournament all-star team and averaged 18.0 points per game during the season. Making in accounting, he had a 3.33 grade-point average last semester.

ABOUD, 65 Wildcat junior forward, averaged 8.5 points and 8.6 rebounds per game last season. He is studying business administration and has a cumulative 3.08 grade-point average.

Congdon, 61 senior guard, scored 16.2 points per game and was the Cougars' best ball handler. He had a 3.18 grade average last semester, with a major in physical education.

Although Cougars Craig Raymond and Jim Jenkins, both 65, were starting at center for the National Invitational Tournament champions, did not qualify as candidates for the academic team, both are B-minus students.

Again in 1965, Northwestern Mutual Life policyholders received the highest quality life insurance at the lowest possible cost.

As "specialists," we concentrate on individually underwritten life insurance high in dividend return and cash values. The resultant low net cost is exceptional among major life insurance companies.

Men Reminded Of Registration Requirements

Colonel Evan P. Clay, Utah State Director of Selective Service, reminds all men between the ages of 18 and 25 who are not U.S. citizens or immigrants that under the Universal Military Service and Training Act, they must register with Selective Service within 5 days after reaching their 18th birthday.

He says that they must have in their personal possession at all times a valid, unaltered registration certificate issued by one of the Selective Service Local Boards.

Membership in any type of reserve component of the armed forces, including the National Guard, does not excuse a man from registering when he reaches age 18. Late registration, or no registration at all, is a criminal violation and will subject a man to immediate induction, heavy fines, or possible imprisonment.
